DESCRIPTION

I am a full-stack software engineer specializing primarily in developing backend solutions and system architecture. I have professional experience in designing web applications using PHP, React, and Python, as well as in deploying infrastructure based on tools such as Docker in Linux environments. I'm looking for challenges related to building distributed systems. In my free time, I develop my skills in data science and build artificial intelligence models.

- PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE
- Full Stack Software Developer | 2024–Current CodeFellow

 - Development and maintenance of SaaS and CRM systems, with a focus on a gradual migration to a microservices-based architecture.
 - Implementation of solutions in PHP and Python to support new business functionalities, integrating them with existing solutions.
 - Containerization of development and production environments using Docker.
 - Optimizing SQL queries in MySQL/PostgreSQL databases and refactoring legacy code to improve system stability and performance.
 - Configuring and administering Linux servers.
 - Creating and developing REST APIs for new features and integrations.
 - Optimizing scraping algorithms for performance and stability.
 - Implementing front-end components of applications using React.js.

Full Stack Software Developer | 2024–Current Freelancer

 - Design and implementation of custom web applications (React/Next.js + Python/PHP).
 - Configuration and administration of VPS servers (Linux, Nginx), including application security and process automation (bash scripts + cron).
